

JAPS CAPTURE SHANGHAI AFTER 88-DAY SIEGE

DAVEY SUGGESTS UTILITY TAX AS BUILDING FUND

Will Ask Special Session
For Five-Year Re-
enactment

CITES NEEDS OF PENAL SYSTEM

Brings Out Relief Plan
Differing From That
Of Ohio League

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Nov. 9.—Indications were today that the one per cent utility excise tax, long sought by the Ohio League of Municipalities as a source for relief revenue, might bliss out as a $12,500,000 state institutional building program.

Gov. Martin L. Davey, before entering last night for New York where he will address the Ohio society, said he would ask the special legislative session, which he has called for Nov. 29 to consider the relief problem, for another five-year enactment of the utility tax,
which expired last April.

The expected $2,500,000 annual revenue from the measure, if approved, he said, would be used only for the state's welfare building program.

Cites Penal Needs
Declaring "it is a crime to let our institutions go along the way they now are," the governor said one of the most pressing needs at present was for a supplemental penitentiary at London, where the state prison farm is located. The present penitentiary at Columbus is greatly overcrowded.

In announcing plans for a special session, Davey brought forth an administration relief plan considerably different from that proposed by the Ohio League of Municipalities. The league's plan had been considered by the joint legislative relief committee and recommended to the governor.

Besides counting on revenue from the utilities excise tax, the league suggested $16,000,000 would be the minimum relief requirement and asked that the state provide nearly $20,000,000 of this.

The governor said he considered $14,000,000 enough to care for the state's entire relief requirements
next year and reiterated his intention of demanding a 50-50 matching by state and local governmental units.

Confers With Burton
Davey's special session announcement came shortly before an announcement by Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland. Burton said after the conference the governor asserted that emergency legislation to finance relief for the rest of the year would be the first business of the special session.

Davey assured him, Burton said,
that $32,000, which the state owns Cuyahoga county for last December and January relief allotments, would be paid out immediately.

The governor later said he would sponsor a bill to appropriate general relief funds for emergency relief financing during the remainder of the year, provided that the money
thus allotted be deducted from funds appropriated under the general plan.

Mayor Proclaims Minute's
Silence at 11 A. M.
Armistice Day

Mayor George R. Harroff today issued an Armistice Day proclamation in connection with the observance in Salem Thursday of the anniversary of the signing of the treaty which ended the World war.

The mayor requests that all citizens pause from their work for a minute's silent tribute at 11 a. m.
Shout whistles will blow and church
bells will ring.

At the same time members of Charles H. Carey post No. 56, American Legion, will hold their annual service at the grave of the man for whom the post was named in Grandview cemetery.

Mayor's Proclamation
The mayor's proclamation reads:
"I, George R. Harroff, mayor of Salem, declare this period starting at 11 a. m. and lasting five minutes on Thursday, Nov. 11, 1937, to be set aside in memory of those who died
for their country in the World war."

"The first minute of this period will be observed by every citizen of Salem by ceasing of all work, and standing quietly wherever he may find himself; insofar as it is practical."

"During the remaining four minutes he calmly contemplate the responsibility that is his, in this momentous time of national and world readjustment."

"As a signal of the arrival of this period the factory whistles and church bells in the city will sound forth at precisely 11 o'clock, and will continue to do so for exactly five minutes."

Mahoning Ruling
Favors Buyers On Installment Plan

(By Associated Press)
YOUNGSTOWN, Nov. 9.—Hundreds of persons throughout the state may benefit from two convictions in repossessions cases here Monday. Assistant Prosecutor
Harold Tetlow said today.

Judge J. H. C. Lyon in common pleas court convicted Mrs. Isabelle Stein, of the National Electric Co.
of unlawful repossession of a washing machine which Mrs. Charles Marshall had bought under a conditional sales contract. Mrs. Marshall said she had paid all but $3 of the original price of $59.50.

Judge Lyon also convicted the Associates Investment Co. of unlawful repossession of an automobile on which W. A. Allison had paid more than half the purchase price.

Both convictions were under a statute permitting buyers to recover 50 per cent of their payments
if an article is repossessed after 25 per cent of its price has been paid. The maximum sentence is $100 fine, but Judge Lyon has withheld sentence pending appeal.

Tetlow said may open the way for hundreds of installment buyers to recover half of their payments on repossessed goods.

Italian-German-Japanese
Anti-Red Triangle Stirs
Rivalries Around World

Brings On Series of Repercussions; Soviet Union
May Break Diplomatic Relations With Both Tokyo and Rome

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Nov. 9.—The underlying significance of the new "world triangle" against Communism heightened national rivalries today all around an already war-ridden world.

The week-end conclusion of the superficially simple accord whereby Fascist Italy joined the Nazi diplomatic ally, Germany, and militarist Japan for joint action on "necessary defense measures" against international Communism, brought an ominous series of repercussions.

Perhaps chief among these was the possibility the Soviet Union would break diplomatic relations with both Tokyo and Rome.

The reactions were world wide and the new anti-Communist front quickly became an important factor in the foreign policies of countless nations.

In Brussels diplomats of the United States, Britain and France were expected to take advantage of tomorrow's resumption of the far eastern peace conference to discuss implications of the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo "triangle."

Reichschancellor Hitler, speaking
last night in Munich in celebration of the anniversary of the Nazis' "beer cellar putsch," proclaimed the power of the "great world political triangle."

"It is not built on three weak structures but of three states which are ready and determined to take care of their rights and their interests," Hitler said.

France apparently was planning to answer the new front by striving to bring her two closest allies, Russia and Britain, into closer harmony and to strengthen her ties
with the little entente (Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania) and Poland to combat Italian-German activity in that sphere.

Eden Off to Brussels
British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, planning to fly to Brussels today, was expected to have long discussions in the next three days with Norman H. Davis, the United States' chief delegate to the Brussels conference, and with French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos.

Diplomats watched closely to see if Moscow would follow up last night's protest to Italy by severing diplomatic and trade relations. The protest declared the Soviet government considered the tri-power pact
"not friendly toward the Soviet."

The United States, it was felt in London, could not ignore the potentialities of the pact because of South America. Some quarters cited Italian and German explanations of their intervention in the Spanish civil war—as a fight against Bolshevism—as an example of how the new alliance might work in other parts of the world, including South America.

It's a Fact — Both Democratic and
G. O. P. Presidents Use Same Dishes

At Least As Long As They Last, Mrs. Roosevelt Tells Audience In Rockford, Ill.

(By Associated Press)
ROCKFORD, Ill., Nov. 9.—Rockford residents knew today how Mrs.
Franklin D. Roosevelt fixes scrambled eggs, her opinion on the probability of a woman being elected president of the United States, and her views on many other unrelated subjects.

Such were the questions they asked her last night after she described "a typical day in the White House," in an address to a crowd that filled nearly all of the arm-ory's 5,500 seats.

Here are some of the questions
put to her and the answers:
Q. What is your favorite recipe,
and how do you fix it?
A. Scrambled eggs. Put a little butter into the skillet, break the eggs into it and add a little cream.
Keep them stirred up until ready to serve.

Q. What do you think about a woman for president?
A. I don't believe a woman could be president for some time to come as women have not yet had enough experience in public office to command the following and confidence of the country as a whole.

Q. Do Democratic presidents use the same dishes in the White House
as Republican presidents?
A. Yes, they use the same dishes
as long as the dishes last.

Q. Do you and the President use an alarm clock?
A. The President doesn't, but I frequently do.

Q. How do you like George Co-han's new play (a takeoff on the New Deal)?
A. I haven't seen it yet. I hope to, but I heard the opening night tickets were $100. I won't go until they come down to box office prices.

Q. Do you think the United States will go to war within two years?
A. How can I tell? I pray the United States never will go to war
But who can tell?

CALL ON COURT TO NAME COMMITTEE

Plan Probe of Solicitation
Of Injury and Death
Claims

LISBON, Nov. 9.—Unethical and illegal practices by some members of the bar, and so-called investigators associated with these men, became the target of the Colum-biana County Bar association today when the grievance committee of the association asked the court to investigate "ambulance chasing" in the county.

The request for the probe was set forth in a petition filed with Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones
by the committee, whose members are Charles Boyd, W. E. Warren, K. L. Coburn, W. O. Wallace and
W. W. Beck.

Ask Committee Approval
The committee, declaring that legal abuses are widespread in the county, asked that the court approve a large committee to investigate the conditions. Members of that committee, which Judge Lones is expected to approve without delay, will include:

Charles McCorkhill, Joel H.
Sharp, W. Edmund Peters, J. E.
Bauknecht, L. M. Kyes, W. E. Warren, Devere Grappy, Francis Lang, Raymond Buzzard, Harry Brokaw,
Ben L. Bennett, James McDonald,
Robert E. Hall, W. W. Beck, Lynn
Riddle, W. O. Wallace, Robert
Oakes, Elmer E. Black and Charles Boyd.

The bar association, of which Atty. Kyes of East Palestine is president, intends to investigate the solicitation of personal injury and death claims by some members of the legal profession, which, it is claimed, has created a condition leading to unethical and illegal practices.

The committee will compel the attendance of witnesses for testimony and the production of papers, books and documentary evidence.

Begin Probe This Week
The probe which it was indicated today, will commence before the end of the week, will continue indefinitely.

First Baptist church at 7:30 p. m.
Wednesday.

Rev. S. Talmage Magann will be in charge for the ministerial association.

Nine high school boys and girls
representing five different Salem churches will take part in the contest.

The contestants, and the titles of the talks they will give, are as follows:

Constance Clark, "What Price
Peace"; John Evans, "Revelations of War"; Donald Vincent, "At Whose Risk"; Charlotte Morey,
"Call It Common Sense"; Margaret Bennett, "America Seen Through the Eyes of a Stranger";

Ruth Bowker, "The Tragedy of
the Model T"; Lewis Raymond Jr.,
"The Betrayal of Peace"; Robert Vickers, "The Will to Peace"; Helen Ward, "Call It Common Sense."

Each has memorized an oration chosen from the official book of selections published by the Ohio Council of Churches. These were taken from a number of prize winning college declamations.

The oration will be delivered by the contestant entirely from memory and there will be no coaching. The time will vary from five to ten minutes each.

Three judges, Misses Betty Burt
and Effie Cameron and William Baker, all teachers in the Salem schools, are well qualified to pick the winner to represent Salem in the county contest to be held early in December. Tomorrow's winner will receive a bronze medal.

The winner of the county contest will receive a silver medal and will represent the county in the district contest. The winner there will receive a gold medal and will compete in the state contest where awards will total seven years free tuition college scholarships and $350 in cash prizes.

More than 600 similar contests
are being held in Ohio this year and many other states are participating in this enterprise of peace education.

Chinese Fall Back To Winter Line Around
Nanking

(By Associated Press)
SHANGHAI, Nov. 9.—Shanghai fell into Japanese hands today with the retreat of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese warriors who had held out 88 days
against combined Japanese army,
navy and air forces.

The city was asleep and unaware of its fate when, shortly after midnight, Chinese forces began an orderly, quiet retreat toward their "winter line" protecting Nanking,
the nation's capital.

Japanese, apparently, did not learn of the retreat until 8 a. m.
(7 p. m. Salem time, Monday).

Ring China Port
The withdrawal enabled Japan
to place a ring of steel around China's greatest port, cutting off the metropolis from the rest of the nation and bottling up three million Chinese residents, one million refugees and many thousands of Americans and other foreigners.

Railroads and highways in all directions were cut or blocked by Japanese, leaving only a few foreign and Japanese vessels as the sole connection with the outside world.

American and foreign communities breathed more easily, as if a long siege suddenly had been lifted.
The plight of Chinese inhabitants and war refugees was considered tactful, however, as they have no means of escape and must reconcile themselves to a long period of isolation surrounded by Japanese troops.

While the loss of Shanghai undoubtedly will affect China's morale, at least temporarily, Generalissimo Chiang declared today that Shanghai operations were purely local and did not form a vital part of the nation's chief defenses.

The warfare, the generalissimo said, will be transferred at present to the great delta lands of the lake region west of Shanghai where China has several so-called Hindenburg lines.

Will Carry On Fight
"We will fight with the same vigor and determination in the future as we did at Shanghai," the generalissimo said.

Although it was impossible to determine precisely the financial loss and casualties of the two belligerents, neutral observers summarized cost of the conflict in the Shanghai and North China areas
thus far as, roughly:

Expenditures: Chinese, $250,000, 000; Japanese, $600,000,000; property loss: Chinese, $200,000,000;
casualties (dead and wounded):
Japanese, 125,000; Chinese, 300,000;
trade loss: Japanese $250,000,000;
Chinese, $100,000,000.

RED BOGEY

The usefulness of bogey politics is illustrated by agreement among Germany, Italy and Japan to make a "front" against Russia and communism.

Italy's participation in the "front" is the result of its understanding with Germany, because Italy is not concerned directly with Russia, nor with communism. Japan and Germany are directly concerned, not because Russia symbolizes the red scare but because it is an obstacle in the spheres of influence they are trying to establish.

Where do Great Britain, France and the United States fit into this picture? In a loose way, they are combined in opposition to fascism, but, with the possible exception of France, they are not pro-Russian or pro-communist.

Rather, they are anti-dictator, or think they are. Also, they find a common ground of agreement in their mutual belief that the status quo should be preserved in international boundaries, pending agreement on such concessions as they may care to make.

In that, they find themselves in agreement with Russia, but not with communism. The only thumb-nail classification of the world with an iota of sense to it is that which divides nations roughly into the "haves" and "have nots."

Germany, Japan and Italy fall easily and naturally into the "have not" classification. The others fit into the "have" classification. The communist bogey, useful for political purposes, isn't the reason the three principal "have not" governments agree to stand together against Russia.

"SHOVING AROUND"

Probably, after a weekend of intensive discussion, nothing remains unsaid about the sad case of the Duke of Windsor and his duchess.

Therefore, this is not an attempt to add or take away anything from what has been said. It is not going to be an apology or an attack, but simply an observation.

Goats butt with their horns, dogs bite with their teeth, cats scratch with their claws, horses kick with their feet and birds peck with their beaks. Every living thing has its own peculiar method of destruction.

Human beings, for instance, variously strike, bite and kick—or did in the forthright old days. Civilization has tamed them down some, so today, unless it's really serious, in which case they use a gun or knife, they merely shove.

They shove, that is, in the sense of "shoving each other around," which is a polite form of social destruction. It means that whenever they find someone who can't defend himself they give him "the works."

In recent times, Herbert Hoover in politics, Charles A. Lindbergh in hero worship and Edward, Duke of Windsor in royalty and politics have been given a rough-and-ready "shoving around." It's not a pretty thing to watch, but it's as human as the instinct to destroy.

LULL

Next week, congress convenes in special session. A hint of the political hullabaloo to come is found in announcement that President Roosevelt will take to the air no less than four times during that one week.

This week, then, is the lull before the storm, the last sweet moments of the public's annual vacation from the legislative grind down in Washington. Each golden moment will be cherished against the tumultuous season ahead.

As if a special session of congress and the accompanying ballyhoo weren't enough, there are Thanksgiving and Christmas lying ahead. There are the last big games on the football schedules. There is the first big snowstorm. There is the beginning of really cold weather.

All these things must be crowded into the waning year—after this week. These last few days should be as precious as a few extra hours of sleep the last day of vacation.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—It would not likely happen in any other city. That is the combination of barriers that have kept Bill Corum, the sports writer, and I from knowing each other, save through an occasional hail that we exchange through our newspaper columns.

We live across a few roof tops from one another—he in a hotel and I in an apartment house—in New York's mid town. We came from Missouri whistle stops only a few hours apart and in the recent merger of two metropolitan newspapers found ourselves articulated to the same journal.

At least a dozen of his close friends are friends of mine—several times I have missed him by an eyelash at this party or that. One of his hangouts is an estaminet into which I sometimes drop on my infrequent rounds of the town by gas light.

Every night, nearly, I walk the dog by Corum's hotel—sometimes as late or early as 3 a. m., and as I would know him from sight by his photographs I am certain I have never seen him coming—or being carried in. It is just one of those things.

The flowing Windsor tie, such as the sartorial trade mark of Morris Gest, is in again. It was a high favorite in the Robert W. Chambers novel days. A recent film, featuring artists who appeared with Windsor bows, helped to perk up a new interest in a vanishing style. Russell Patterson, the artist, wears a Windsor now and then, and so does Joseph Herge-shelmer.

But hat manufacturers say Al Smith has spiked all chances of reviving the brown derby. It used to bob up for a seasonal flare every five years or so, but cannot get going any more. Smith's benny has been too widely kidded and cartooned for anyone to wear it with dignity. Al remains about the only person who can wear the brown derby and still be taken somewhat seriously.

The debutante heiress, Gloria Baker, has become one of the most extravagantly publicized maids of the season. And a choice target for the gossip writers. If she visits a night club and applauds the orchestra she is chronicled next day as mooning over the saxophone player. "Mimi," as she is known to her intimates, uses the same technique as her half brother, Alfred Vanderbilt. She is attended by a different donzel every time she steps out. It is a matter of record, that young Vanderbilt was never seen with the same lady two nights in succession. An accomplished turfman, he plays the field.

Canine barometer: Our cousin's Sealyham is amazingly storm conscious. A half hour before rain, lightning or thunder comes up the dog begins trotting around, panting and trembling. Just before the deluge it hides in a closet or under the bed. The severity of the storm is indicated by the animal's fright.

Every now and then our household is upset by harking back to the long ago. This morning at breakfast we let loose a gale of guffaws—my wife and I—recalling the times we used to butter our hands for the taffy pull.

The St. Regis has made an entrance off Fifth avenue to its King Cole bar, where hangs the original over-exploited Maxfield Parrish portrait. It was done originally for the old Knickerbocker bar, owned by the Astor estate, and when Vincent Astor took up the active direction of the St. Regis he had it moved there. The King Cole canvas and the Ben Hur electrical chariot race sign were two of the Broadway high spots when I came to town. King Cole was the topic for much banter in the vandyville skits and off-color gags in the saloons. I first saw it with Bob Davis and Ray Long but was more interested in living figures at one of the tables—Caruso talking to two gentlemen I recognized as Weber and Fields. And later into the room came Rex Beach in a hunting coat, just back from lassoing polar bears with Fred Stone in Alaska. Did my eyes pop?

Lois Long tells the story of the two swishy boys who stopped at a roadhouse for liquid refreshments. One said he would have a coca cola and the second said he'd like ginger ale with ice. The third ordered: "Plain water for me; I'm doing the driving."

Dudley Field Malone is writing his memoirs—preparatory to a cloistered life in the far west, they say. Few are better known in New York, London and Paris than this now bald and pink-checked fellow who might pose for Punch's picture of John Bull himself. He has made life a jolly adventure while serving conspicuously in politics, occupying a responsible post during the Wilson administration as well as being collector of the port of New York for many years. He has also been an international lawyer, pleading cases in many foreign courts. And he is known as one of the witty after-dinner speakers. An accomplished gourmet and first nighter, he is one of the last of the boulevardiers.

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, November 10

Sudden upheavals, with much commotion and excitement, is the presage based on the predominant astral influences. The result will not be adverse, as these unexpected and intensified conditions are in quest of splendid adventure, culminating in increased possessions, finances and general stability of the fortunes. A feminine influence or other private source may play a part in this, and may require a domestic readjustment and travel.

If This Is Your Birthday Those whose birthday it is are under a sign that precipitates very sudden and quite unexpected events, with upheavals, change and travel, but all in the direction of bettering the affairs and enlarging and stabilizing the fortunes as well as property values. Great enterprise, with domestic change in which feminine influence is a factor, is seen. Grasp all opportunities with sound judgment, not with confusion or excitement.

A child born on this day may have many original talents, with much initiative and spirit of adventure and speculation. These may bring it fine progress and solid fortunes, with probably some place in public service.

Anesthesia

PERSONS WHO contemplate major operations often confess that they fear the anesthetic more than the operation. They are indeed surprised when they awaken after the operation to find what little ill effect they suffer. Indeed, they may be remarkably comfortable.

How different this is from the common experience of only a quarter of a century ago. It was customary then to find a patient awakening from an operation violently sick at the stomach and perhaps delirious, unaware of his surroundings. It was customary to place a basin under the patient's face and encourage him to vomit. In most instances little encouragement was needed.

Today, nausea is rarely experienced after an operation. Many of my readers will recall that in former years all hospitals reeked with the smell of ether and other volatile drugs. Such odors can rarely be detected in a hospital today.

Anesthesia is given in a scientific manner. The patient is wheeled into a special room outside of the operating room. He receives the anesthetic here and is never taken into the operating room until he is sound asleep.

Various Drugs Used Various drugs are used today. They may be given in combination with gases, such as nitrous oxide, oxygen and ethylene. The anesthetic is administered by the so-called inhalation method. The amount given is scientifically estimated and varies with each individual, depending upon age, weight and other factors.

At times a local anesthetic may be used in preference to anesthesia by inhalation. Then there is injected into the tissues to be cut a drug such as novocaine. Cocaine was formerly used for this purpose, but novocaine is regarded as safer.

Injection of an anesthetic into the spinal canal is another form of anesthesia frequently used nowadays. This is recommended in certain cases. Although the patient is awake and conscious of movements during the operation, he experiences no pain.

Within recent years rectal anesthesia has been used extensively. In this form of anesthesia certain drugs are injected into the rectum. Peaceful and quiet sleep results, and this may last from 45 minutes to one hour and a half.

"THE SILVER ROOD MYSTERY"

by Lewis Allen Browne

CHAPTER XXXIX

Colton opened a brief case and produced the evidence, attested copies of the letter to the museum, the will, Lutzmann. There was no arrest but that the story of Professor Lardeau was true—at least up to the point where he said that he did not kill Montiehl.

Many other things were already revolving in my mind. I wanted to have a talk with Harper and Foxcroft. I wondered what they would do with Lardeau. As if reading my mind, the professor spoke.

"I do not wish to leave until you have found the man who killed Mr. Montiehl," he said. "I wish to be at the point where he said that he did not kill Montiehl. I assure you I shall remain, if it takes you weeks, months, or a year."

"That's fair enough. Will you excuse us a moment?" I asked.

Lardeau bowed. I went to the other office, Foxcroft and Harper followed me.

"Look him up," Harper said. "Wait a minute, Sergeant." Foxcroft pleaded. "You wouldn't look up a man who killed Mr. Montiehl?"

"I don't believe Lardeau is any more guilty than I am." Despite the gravity and the mystery, this amused me. Harper, convinced that Lardeau was the man, Foxcroft sure it was Griswold.

I gave them a surprise.

"Will you permit me to entertain Lardeau at home tonight?" At Major Forrest's. I mean?" I asked.

"What's the idea?" Harper demanded.

"It's such a crazy idea that I want to work it out. I want to put Lardeau at his ease. And I want to know why that silver rood was stolen last night."

"Stolen? Heavens above, we need that! I should never have left it there!" Harper cried.

"Perhaps you should. I'm not sure yet."

I told them all I knew about it. We managed to talk Harper out of his determination to look up the professor, for the present, at least.

"He won't run away," I assured them.

I picked up the telephone and got Sally.

"Well—what have you learned?" she cried as soon as she recognized my voice.

Two volumes, and no solution. Now get this, my dear. I am going to bring Professor Lardeau home for dinner, and for the night. Will you while Mason is serving tea this afternoon, announce in his hearing that I am bringing Professor Lardeau out? And watch him."

"Yes—but you do have the craziest notions!"

"Be a nice Old Girl, Sally, do that."

She promised.

Foxcroft and Mason were listening and eyeing me with great curiosity.

"Now what, Harley?" Foxcroft asked.

"That's what I want to know. Perhaps I will find out."

Whatever I had in mind was so hazy, and apparently so absurd, that I didn't care to try to explain it.

We went back and I invited Professor Lardeau to be a guest at the home of my father-in-law, Foxcroft told him who I was. He protested that he must not be put into a novel. I assured him that his name would never be used. He asked if he was under arrest. Again we assured him that he was not.

He looked at Mr. Colton, who promptly told him that it was quite all right and that he must remember that, after all, he was in a difficult situation and should be grateful.

We were through with Colton for the present. He wanted to get back to New York. He presented his bill for services to Foxcroft who told him that it would be promptly settled.

I got Lardeau's funny looking foreign valise with its myriad foreign labels, and drove away. I drove past my father-in-law's home, pointing it out to him, and explaining why I wanted to go up to the Montiehl home.

I introduced him to Mary and Mrs. Stapleton and, more to relieve the professor's suspicions than all else, I said, "We are assured that not only is Professor Lardeau innocent of the crime, but that he had every right to take the painting. It is a long story. I will tell it later."

Then I took Lardeau out on the drive and had him go through all that he did on the afternoon he came and took the painting.

He came up to the path and walked around to the library porch.

"I knew that Mr. Montiehl was there most of the time," he explained. "Right there was a gardener, with a rake. He told me not to wake Mr. Montiehl. I promised and sat here, on the step." He sat down.

While I sat down the gardener went away—over there, and into that glass house. I stood up and looked in, seeing Mr. Montiehl sleeping. I could see the Van Dyck on the wall, through the open library door. That was when I was such a fool as to decide to take it and flee. I opened the screen door, like this—

He acted it all out as I followed.

"Closed it softly, the grass rug was soft. I went in, took down the Van Dyck, with great emotion. I put it under my coat and came out, like this—

We came out.

"Right there I saw the tall man." "Show me where, and what he did."

Lardeau walked over the grass to the corner of the house, stepped around the corner, calling "Like this." He stepped into view, gave a glance at me and stepped back.

He came back to me.

"I hurried down the drive—and there, sir—you have all of it."

I thanked him. I noticed that Mary and her aunt were watching us from the window with great interest. We went up on the veranda and I asked Mary to have Davidson serve drinks. Lardeau asked for wine. We had cocktails. Rapidly and briefly I told Lardeau's story, knowing that he would take an eternity to tell it.

"So poor Nola stole the painting, with other things, before she left," Mrs. Stapleton exclaimed. "We supposed whatever she brought with her was merely her own. I had no idea what she had, other than seeing the painting and the rood when she gave them to Gerard."

"So! Ah, you bear me out. You are the lady who helped Lutzmann's wife to escape. And we believed he was lying for two years, we believed she had gone at his command with the painting and that later he would join her and sell it. Well, it is all past—it cannot be helped, not at all."

"He was a beast," Mrs. Stapleton declared. "Gerard saw him beat his poor little wife, and when she came to us she bore many bruises."

"Then, perhaps, he deserved the imprisonment. Who knows?"

I described the rood and how the knife blade was hidden, and I was more convinced than ever that Lardeau knew nothing about it.

When I drove into my father-in-law's grounds, Russell, the house man who assisted Mason, took the valise. I thought nothing of it at the time, and went up to the guest room with Lardeau, after the introductions. I left him there and came down.

"Again," I said with a groan, "I have to tell that story."

They were all gathered about me, asking if Lardeau had cleared himself, what he had said, and many other questions. Again I briefly outlined his strange yet quite believable story.

When Professor Lardeau came down he was freshly shaven and in dinner clothes. He made himself thoroughly agreeable and told my father-in-law some interesting things about two valuable paintings that were in the reception hall.

Just before dinner Russell came out with cocktails.

"What is Mason?" I said to Sally, and then remembered what I had asked her.

"Chills or something. Dave took up some remedies we have, and Russell took up hot water and rum."

"By the way," I murmured, "what happened when you announced that I was bringing Lardeau out?"

"Not a thing—you mean with Mason?"

"Yes. He showed no interest."

"Not a quiver. He was passing some little cakes and didn't look up. Whatever made you ask me to do that?"

"Wrong hunch, I guess," I replied. Just before dinner I asked Dave to go up and see how Mason was. He came back at once.

"He's a grateful chap, guess he has got some sort of chills; he looks all shot," David reported.

file charges against those found guilty of the alleged abuses.

The petition filed in court this morning states, "That these petitioners aver that there exists in Columbiana county a practice known as 'ambulance chasing'."

"That, is the solicitation and insisting of personal injury and death claims by attorneys, sometimes directly and personally, but more often indirectly, and through the efforts of other persons usually styled as 'investigators,' employed by or associated with the lawyers."

"That these 'investigators' generally are laymen, although some are lawyers, and the said 'investigators' are paid a share of the fees received on the successful outcome from cases he procures."

"These petitioners further aver that these so-called 'investigators' seek the injured person, or members of their family, and seek to obtain their signatures to printed, or written contracts, employing the lawyers for whom he is soliciting."

"Many times said contracts are signed by injured persons who are in a weakened physical and mental condition and have only the vaguest comprehension of the contents, or terms, of said contract, and without having any information of the character, standing or ability of the attorney involved."

"In many instances the so-called 'investigators' represent that the attorneys in whose behalf he is acting, are specialists in personal injury cases and are able to give better services than other attorneys, making extravagant statements in regard to the amount of money which these attorneys will, or can, collect for them, sometimes showing photographic copies of checks (or what purports to be checks) in large amounts received by them in payment of claims for similar injuries, or injuries that resulted in death."

"The nefarious practices, the bar association committee points out, have become so widespread as to threaten a complete commercializing of the field of litigation pertaining to the prosecution of personal injury and death claims."

"The practices are condemned by the majority of members of the bar, who claim the actions have brought discredit upon the profession and the administration of justice."

"The petitioners also aver that the so-called 'investigators' stop at nothing to obtain a claim, usually resorting to fraudulent statements depreciating the ability of other attorneys."

HIGH BLOOD Pressure

Thousands have been helped in this simple DRUGLESS way

French doctors have discovered a new, drugless method for the treatment of high blood pressure and its associated symptoms of headache and dizziness. They have found that a concentrate of garlic in certain measured dosage lowers the blood pressure an average of 10 to 40 points and that this effect may be prolonged by repeating the dose at prescribed intervals. They report further that as the blood pressure is lowered, in almost all cases the associated symptoms of headache and dizziness disappear.

ALLIMIN Garlic-Parsley Tablets contain the essence of these ingredients in highly concentrated form. They are specially processed and free from objectionable taste and odor. They are absolutely guaranteed to be free from drugs of every kind. They act by improving the condition, not by dulling the pain.

ALLIMIN Essence of Garlic Parsley Tablets have been thoroughly tested in actual cases of high blood pressure by Dr. Frederic Damrau, eminent physician of Paris, Ave. New York City. Dr. Damrau has written a booklet telling of his favorable experience with these tablets. A copy of this booklet may be had free by any high blood pressure sufferer.

ALLIMIN Essence of Garlic Parsley Tablets are on sale at all good drug stores, in two sizes—50c and $1.00. When purchasing, see that you get the genuine ALLIMIN, even if you have to insist. Only in this way can you be sure of getting the self-same tablets used by Dr. Damrau with such favorable results. For free copy of Dr. Damrau's booklet, address:

Theater Attractions

Edward Norris and Gloria Dickson, seen in "They Won't Forget", at the State theater Wednesday only.

"They Won't Forget," taken from the Ward Greene's novel, "In the Deep South," comes to the State for a Wednesday only showing.

The story, an indictment of bigotry and mob violence, is excellently played and produced. Edward Norris, Claude Rains, Gloria Dickson, Allyn Joslyn, Otto Kruger, Lana Turner, Linda Perry, Clifford Souther and Clinton Rosemond are seen in featured roles.

Small Town Story

It is the portrait of a small town turned hysterically by the mob appeal of an ambitious district attorney and a newspaper reporter.

Norris, young teacher in the town school, is accused of the murder of one of the popular girl students, whose part is taken by Lana Turner. He is tried and convicted on circumstantial evidence by Rains, as the ambitious attorney for the state. Kruger is seen as the able defense attorney. Gloria Dickson is the teacher's young wife. Allyn Joslyn is the reporter who, by his articles, influences the public mind and convinces it of the teacher's guilt.

Norris, convicted, has his sentence commuted by the governor to life imprisonment. While he is being taken to prison a furious mob halts the train, seizes him and lynches him.

Cantor Film Concludes

The Eddie Cantor comedy, "All

Baba Goes To Town," featuring a large cast of comedy favorites, concludes tonight at the State.

"The Perfect Specimen," with Joan Blondell and Errol Flynn, will be seen for the last time tonight at the Grand theater.

because it didn't have to be carried across the ocean. Secretary Morgenthau announced these foreign supplies now are exhausted.

No Credit Tightening

To the public, he added, these transactions mean little. He explained that although the export of gold means the withdrawal of foreign money from our banks, credit will not be tightened. The outflow will be counteracted, he said, by the treasury's inactive gold or stabilization fund.

AWAITS RULING ON TRIAL MOVE

Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn Stoical as Her Counsel Carries On Fight Against Chair

CINCINNATI, Nov. 9.—Anna Marie Hahn awaited stoically today a ruling by Judge Charles S. Bell on a motion for a new trial to save her from the death penalty as the poison slayer of Jacob Wagner, 78.

Judge Bell announced he would rule next Monday on Attorney Joseph H. Hoodin's motion listing irregularities in court procedure, misconduct of the prosecution and a contention that the death penalty was not sustained by the evidence.

The fight to prevent Mrs. Hahn from going to her death was renewed two days after she was found guilty by a jury of 11 women and one man of administering a deadly metallic poison to the elderly gardener. The defense also protested the court's admission of state's evidence to show that three other elderly acquaintances of Mrs. Hahn died of poison.

Judge Bell was expected to set the date of Mrs. Hahn's execution within two weeks should he deny a new trial. No woman ever has been electrocuted in Ohio.

Meanwhile, experts in the county auditor's office estimated the cost of the month-long trial at $10,000. They reported that fees for jury service would total $1,053 and that meals and hotel bills for the group would equal that amount.

PITT DISPLACES CALIFORNIA AS LEADING TEAM

ALABAMA RATES THIRD IN POLL OF GRID TEAMS

Panthers Given top Ranking Over California Golden Bears

By ALAN GOULD.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Pittsburgh's football powerhouse, triumphant in the Rose Bowl last New Year's day and seemingly ambitious to try it again, displaced the University of California today as the nation's No. 1 team.

The combination of Pitt's emphatic victory over Notre Dame and California's scoreless tie with Washington helped bring about the biggest shakeup so far in the national gridiron ranking poll conducted by the Associated Press.

Pittsburgh collected a majority of the first-place ballots, 21 1/2 out of 55, and piled up a decisive margin on points while California dropped to second place after leading the procession for three weeks. Alabama received more first-place votes than California in this week's balloting but was not supported strongly enough otherwise to avoid dropping a notch to third place.

The marked swing of football's balance of power to the northeast, with five teams from this section in the "first ten," is indicated by the following tabulation:

(First places bracketed; points scored 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1.)

First Ten	Points
1. Pittsburgh (31 1/2)	599 1/2
2. California (9)	449
3. Alabama (13)	422
4. Fordham (1 1/2)	386 1/2
5. Dartmouth	253
6. Yale	215
7. Santa Clara	166
8. Duke	159
9. Villanova	62
10. Minnesota	61

Second Ten—11. Nebraska, 55; 12. Louisiana State, 52; 13. Baylor, 43; 14. Auburn, 30; 15. Rice, 29; 16. Colorado university, 23; 17. Indiana, 13; 18. Notre Dame, 12; 19. Holy Cross, 7; 20. Arkansas, 6.

Others mentioned—Army 2, Ohio State, Washington, Montana and Lafayette, 1 each.

Minnesota, traveling a surprisingly zig-zag course, bounced back into the first ten after one week's absence. Duke and Villanova also moved into the select circle, as the experts filled gaps left by Baylor, Nebraska, and Ohio State. Baylor skidded from fourth place to 13th after its first defeat.

Nebraska's ranking at No. 11, a notch below Minnesota, marks one of this week's inconsistencies. Even though the Cornhuskers lost some prestige in barely tying Kansas the fact remains they beat Minnesota, which rallied voting support by trouncing Iowa State.

Only two of the top ten, Alabama and Santa Clara, have records clear of either tie or defeat. Seven others have nothing worse than a tie on their slates, including the now famous and third successive deadlock between Pitt and Fordham. Minnesota has been licked twice.

COLUMBIANA SET FOR BIG TUSSE

Jimmy Wiand's Team To Face East Palestine Thursday

COLUMBIANA, Nov. 9.—Several hundred Columbian football fans will invade East Palestine Thursday afternoon to witness the annual struggle between rival scholastic grid teams from the two towns.

The advance "dope" favors the Red and White, but anything can and usually does happen when teams representing East Palestine and Columbian meet. Coach Van Hyning's charges have been beaten with great regularity this season, while Jimmy Wiand's lads have suffered only one defeat and been scored upon by one team, Minerva.

Boardman, last Saturday, beat East Palestine 16-0. The previous week, the locals took Boardman 13-0. On paper, that would make Columbian five touchdowns better than their Armistice day opponents.

Last year's score, 7-6, decided the Tri-County league championship in favor of Columbian, which is still clinging to third place this year by virtue of a scoreless tie last Saturday at Sebring.

Two members of the Columbian squad suffered injuries over the weekend, though neither played in the Sebring game Saturday. Saturday morning, Olan Useton, 200-pound sub-tackle on Coach Wiand's team, suffered a broken wrist when he was pushed by another boy, falling over still a third lad, at Firestone park.

Sunday afternoon, Clinton Howell, also a sub-lineman, sustained a fractured left hip while playing sandlot football near his home. He was taken to the Salem city hospital. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Howell and is a freshman. Useton, a junior, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Useton, South Elm st.

The only serious injury sustained in the varsity game this season was the broken wrist of Harold Burkle, suffered in the Minerva game.

Wrestling Results

New York—Steve Casey, 225, Ireland, threw Hans Schnabel, 220, Germany, (36:45).

Atlantic City, N. J.—Chief Little Wolf, 210, New York City, and Jack Kennedy, 217, Chicago, wrestled 19:41 referee ruled no match when they collided and were counted out.

BOWLING RESULTS

There seems to be no catching the Colonial Billiards in the Quaker City Bowling league.

Last night at the Grate Recreation alleys, the Billiards took three games from the second-place Floding & Reynard Druggs to increase their lead to five games. The defeats dropped the Druggs into the second place and into a tie for third with the Economy V-8's, the Golden Eagle and Tigers.

Althouse Motors moved up into second position with three wins over the Salem Motor.

The first place Ohio Edison team of the American league lost two games to the second place Reich Sports at the Masonic temple alleys last night, but the set-backs failed to disturb the Edisonites' leading position.

Two teams from the Electric Furnace, bowling at Elyria last weekend, chalked up victories over Electro-Alloys quintets. The one Salem team won its match, 2603 to 2439, while the other local outfit won 2311 to 2290.

Metzger Tops Ohio College Grid Scorers

Miami Back Moves Ahead As Hiram Ace Goes Blank Saturday

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9.—Charley Metzger, Miami's sterling senior fullback, topped Ohio's collegiate football scorers today with 54 points, soaring to the peak from second place Saturday as he counted a pair of touchdowns against Ohio Wesleyan while the other top scorers displayed little activity.

Metzger's 12-point spurge against the Bishops lifted him above second-place Bob Bloom of Hiram by a full touchdown, the Terrier star being blanked by Otterbein after scoring two touchdowns in each of four straight contests.

Johnny Lucas of Western Reserve slipped into a third-place tie at 36 points with Ralph Patton of Muskingum and Marty Slovak of Toledo, both of whom failed to count Saturday as Lucas scored his team's lone marker in the Syracuse catastrophe.

Heinmiller of Baldwin-Wallace had the sixth spot all alone with 32 points as the result of his touchdown against Case, which touched the Scientists out of the Ohio conference race. On his heels, with 30 points each, were Padley of Dayton, Schweitzer of Case and Zazula of Akron, the latter scoring a pair of touchdowns against Davis & Elkins to land among the top-fighters.

Of the 272 players who have scored at least one point, only 22 have counted 24 or more points. Barring a "field day" by someone, the individual race appears to be a two-man affair between Metzger and Bloom, the latter being a touchdown behind the Redskins ace and two ahead of the rest of the field.

Zemla of Akron took control of the point-after-touchdown column as he boosted three Saturday to hike his total to 13, two more than Kelly of Dayton, who kicked one as the Flyers dropped out of the unbeaten list against Toledo.

With Success Near, Musical Sailor Is Signed For 6 Years

CLEVELAND, Nov. 9.—A six-year enlistment in the U. S. navy put a song-writing sailor on a troubled sea today, just as he glimpsed the realization of his ambition.

Bradford Greene, 22-year-old composer, hopes to slip the sailor's knot he has tied around his fortunes by that enlistment and be free to pursue a career that is opening with the initial tryout here tomorrow of the new musical comedy "Right This Way," for which he wrote the score.

After the rounds of theatrical agents on Broadway failed to establish him in the business of writing lyrics, Greene enlisted in the navy to study at the navy music school at Washington. But before leaving for Washington, he left a copy of the score for "Right This Way" with a woman who assisted with its composition.

Then Miss Alice Alexander decided to produce the show — and Greene found himself all tied up with a six-year enlistment.

A pretty, gray-eyed dancer in "Right This Way" took the first step toward untangling the knot that Greene put in his future.

In a letter to President Roosevelt, Miss Grace McDonald pointed out the young composer's abilities, his promise for a future in the lyric business, and incidentally her love for him — and asked the President to do something about the six-year agreement.

FARM BUREAU HEAD CHOSEN

R. E. Frederick of Poland Is Elected At Annual Meeting

GREENFORD, Nov. 9.—R. E. Frederick of Poland was named president of the Mahoning county Farm Bureau at its annual meeting in the Canfield Presbyterian church.

Officers elected to assist Frederick are: Vice president, Ira Martin of Beaver township; secretary, R. C. Lamb of Green township; treasurer, Martin Kenrich of Green township; lady directors, Mrs. Frank Agnew of Boardman, Mrs. Maggie Taylor of North Benton and Mrs. R. E. Frederick of Poland.

In election of delegates to the state convention to be held in Columbus Nov. 18-19, Ira Martin and R. C. Lamb were selected. The invocation of the meeting was given by Rev. McCullough, Canfield Presbyterian pastor. Singing was led by Emilon Taylor of North Benton. Reports given by the various departments showed a growing business of the county bureau.

The new county co-operative manager, Wesley Kern, spoke briefly. Ruth Burton of Goshen township gave a report of the Farm Bureau Youth Conference.

R. W. Benjamin, president of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau was the guest speaker. His talk emphasized the worth of the co-operative movement.

Entertainment features were instrumental novelties by Thalia Bedell and Roene Woolman of Berlin township, and marimba solos by Mrs. Kathryn Brown of New Springfield.

EAST LIVERPOOL, Nov. 9.—The board of education indicated last night that a special election will be called in January on a proposed $235,000 bond issue to erect a 22-room junior high school, rejected in the Nov. 2 balloting, if the state department of education approves the plan.

Three of five members expressed approval of the resubmission, urged by residents in East End, where a site was acquired several years ago. The election would cost $950,000 which would be deducted from school taxes.

F. D. R. STUDIES ECONOMIC TREND

Must Make Decision Soon
On His Policy of Spending

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—President Roosevelt, making a concentrated study of the economic situation, must decide soon whether to curtail or increase government expenditures as an aid to business.

With that problem in mind, he continued today a series of conferences with federal economists and department heads concerning next year's budget, relief needs, and employment trends.

Some of Mr. Roosevelt's recent callers have urged him to balance the budget, reduce WPA funds, and modify the capital gains tax to reassure merchants and industrialists.

Others have contended, however, that purchasing power has slumped and that federal "pump priming" funds should be continued or expanded.

Morgenthau To Talk

Although aides stressed that the President has reached no conclusions, observers believed Secretary Morgenthau might give a hint of the administration fiscal attitude in an address tomorrow night before the League for Political Sciences in New York.

Morgenthau said his topic would be "spending" and that he would give his views on government "pump priming."

The other principal source of government expenditures—work relief—is generally expected to continue during the winter along the lines of the present announced policy that no one shall starve.

Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins predicted yesterday a seasonal rise in relief roles, but indicated a belief that there would be no shortage of funds.

Any increase in relief costs would boost the deficit for this fiscal year and make more difficult the fulfillment of Mr. Roosevelt's avowed intention to balance next year's budget.

Those who have argued that business would be helped by easing the capital gains tax were joined yesterday by Senator King (D-Utah), who called yesterday for repeal of the undistributed profits levy.

Much Obligated!

NEW YORK — Herman Rosenzweig, a tailor, found a wallet containing $1,598 in cash while pressing a pair of pants.
